TASA Declaration & Engagement Letter

Austax Accountants & Financial Planners Pty Ltd ("Austax") is a registered tax agent under the Tax Agent Services Act 2009 (TASA). Our Registered Agent Number is 73380-000. We will notify you immediately should our registration be suspended or terminated before the conclusion of this engagement. Our engagement as your registered tax agent is governed by our obligations under the TASA, APES 320: Quality Control for Firms, and our terms of engagement, available from our office or our website at www.austlaxaccountants.com.au/termsengagement as supplemented by the terms contained in this engagement letter.

This engagement is performed by Austax using the information and data provided to us by you, our client. Accordingly, any advice provided by Austax is only an opinion based on our knowledge and understanding of your particular circumstances and any tax returns including any schedules or elections contained therein, prepared on your behalf are subject to the same limitations. Whilst we will exercise reasonable care, as contemplated by the TASA, when preparing your tax returns, ultimately the responsibility for the accuracy and completeness of the information used to prepare your tax return vests with you.

Should you subsequently become aware of any errors or omissions in the information relied upon by Austax as the basis of any advice or used to prepare your tax return, it is your responsibility to contact us as soon as possible to ensure that any advice provided is still applicable to your circumstances, or where necessary, to arrange for an amendment to be made to your tax return. Failure to do so immediately may result in the Australian Tax Office (ATO) applying penalties and/or interest charges in addition to any shortfall tax amounts, increasing the severity of any penalties that may be applicable, or possibly lead to prosecution and imprisonment.

It is your responsibility to keep all the records, receipts, logbooks, travel diaries and any other documentation used to prepare your tax return, to comply with your substantiation obligations imposed under Australian taxation law. If you are claiming deductions, you must keep written evidence to verify your claims for those deductions and, where applicable, records detailing how you have apportioned your claims between private and work/business use. Such records must generally be kept for a period of five years from the date your notice of assessment is issued.

Under the self-assessment system, your income tax return is generally accepted at face value without adjustment. Even though you may receive a notice of assessment, which creates the formal obligation to pay tax, your return may be subject to further review or verification. The Australian Taxation Office (ATO) period of review is usually two to four years from the date your notice of assessment is issued. Be aware that the ATO may withhold any tax refund due and use the proceeds to discharge other outstanding taxation or government debts (Centrelink, Child Support, Family Assistance Office etc) that you may owe.

Should your tax return be subject to an audit or review by the ATO, you have certain rights and options, including the right to object and the right to appeal to the Administrative Appeals Tribunal should a dispute with the ATO arise. This engagement should in no way be construed to diminish your responsibility to understand and comply with any obligations imposed upon you by law.

In the course of performing this engagement, we may encounter situations that require specialist advice, or services that are necessary for us to complete the engagement which Austax is not qualified to provide. Examples of such services include legal advice, financial advice, actuarial services, audit services, insolvency services, business and property valuations, title searches and depreciation/quantity surveyor reports. In such situations, we may refer you to a third party capable of providing the advice/service required but at all times you are free under the terms of this engagement to utilise the services of a provider of your choice.

Fees payable by you under this engagement shall be determined in accordance with the rates outlined in the current Austax Fee Schedule, displayed at our office and available upon request. Fees incurred under this engagement will generally be invoiced and payable immediately upon completion of your tax return or, at our discretion, on 14 day account. All fees must be paid in full PRIOR to the lodgement of your tax return, unless you have agreed in writing to have our fees deducted from your expected tax refund. In some circumstances, we may also require payment in advance as surety, prior to the commencement of work. Austax fees for the preparation of your income tax return under this engagement do not cover the additional work associated with an audit or review of your return by the ATO. Should your return be subject to audit or review by the ATO, additional fees will be payable to Austax as outlined in the Austax Fee Schedule or otherwise agreed.

Should your account become overdue, it is your responsibility to, advise your accountant once payment has been made in full, and, to confirm that your return has been lodged. Where, as the result of your failure to settle an account within the terms stipulated, your tax return is lodged late, you hereby agree to indemnify Austax from any liability to compensate you for any late lodgement fines, penalties or interest charges imposed by the ATO.

Where we are unable to complete an engagement due to your failure or refusal to: comply with the law; comply with our advice, instructions, directions or requests; sign a tax document prepared by us on your behalf; provide the necessary information for us to complete the engagement; or, the termination of this engagement by either party, all fees incurred up to that point for work performed will be due and payable by you immediately.

Client Declaration
